A Vermont company that sells stone countertops across the country has come up with a novel idea for reducing the amount of waste. # Boy's 1979 Abduction Changed U.S.

After Etan vanished, a new age of paranoia set in for many parents

New York

A generation of sheltered American children grew up in the shadow of anxiety that fell over this country one day in 1979, when a little boy with a charming grin vanished from a Manhattan street corner.

They never knew his name or saw that angelic-looking face. But their parents would never forget it.

For some, their caution was simply a result of what they read in news reports. Others, including Jim Stratton, had an immediate and very personal reason to be afraid.

"It sent a chill through everybody," said Stratton, 73, whose son was in the same neighborhood play group as Etan Patz, the 6-year-old who never boarded his school bus in 1979. "You could not leave your child for a minute. ... It was like a dark cloud had come over the neighborhood."

Before Patz disappeared, the notion that a child could be abducted right off the street, in broad daylight, was not familiar. Children roamed their hometowns freely, unencumbered by fear. They could walk to school and the bus stop and just about anywhere they pleased all by themselves. That all changed after Investigators carry concrete pieces out of a basement of a building on Wooster Street in Manhattan on Friday for the renewed investigation into Etan Patz's 1979 disappearance.

The Long Search for Etan

Last week, authorities began ripping up an old basement near Etan Patz's SoHo loft with the aim of finding his remains, spurred on by a cadaver-sniffing dog that picked up a scent there. "He was here the whole time for all of us," said Cass Collins, whose son was in the same neighborhood play group as Etan. "He was always in our thoughts." Authorities say they began the search after an FBI dog indicated the scent of human remains in the room. (AP)

Patz set off for school in his favorite pilot's cap and did not return.

A new age of paranoia had grabbed hold of the national psyche. And so many years later, that paralyzing sense of fear has yet to fully release its grip.

"In many ways, it was the end of an era of innocence."

— ERNIE ALLEN, PRESIDENT OF THE NATIONAL CENTER FOR EXPLOITED AND MISSING CHILDREN, REFERRING TO ETAN PATZ'S DISAPPEARANCE IN 1979.

Yukie Ohta, now 43, was 10 years old when Patz disappeared from SoHo, where she grew up. They used to play in the same basement that is now being torn up by investigators. She remembers making necklaces out of dry macaroni down there. And she vividly recalls the search for her playmate that went on for weeks.

"I would never let my child take the bus alone at age 8 or 10, but we all did when we were kids," Ohta said.

Ohta's mother brought her up with the rose-colored idea that Patz was still out there somewhere, alive. She has clung to this story, all the while knowing it was probably not true.

"That idea sort of has been shattered," she said last week after the latest search for his remains began.

A woman fishes in Wilmington, N.Y., after a snowfall on Sunday. A spring nor'easter is expected to strengthen early Monday.

snow in some areas

New York

A spring nor'easter rumbled along the East Coast on Sunday and was expected to bring rain and heavy winds and even snow in some places as it strengthens into early Monday, a punctuation to a relatively dry stretch of weather for the Northeast.

The storm is atypical for April but not uncommon, said David Stark, a National Weather Service meteorologist in New York City, where 2½ to 3½ inches of rain are expected in the city with wind gusts of 25-30 mph.

With the storm came a spate of disruptions. Pro baseball games were postponed in New York and Washington. The space shuttle Enterprise's Sunday arrival in New

Another unseasonable nor'easter last year just before Halloween dumped up to 2 feet of wet, heavy snow that snapped tree limbs and power lines, and knocked out power to more than 3 million customers in the Northeast. York City was pushed back. An Earth Day celebration in Virginia Beach, Va., was canceled. Some higher-elevation areas in the western parts of Pennsylvania, New York and in West Virginia could even see snow. Forecasts called for 4 to 12 inches.

Elsewhere, from Philadelphia north through New York City and into southern New England, up to 4 inches of rain could fall, with the heaviest downpour expected early Monday. Flooding was possible in some areas, but precipitation in much of the Northeast is below normal for this time of year.

"We're down 7 or 8 inches," weather service forecaster Charlie Foley said. "This won't completely wipe out the deficit, but it will certainly help."

Even Lake Champlain on the Vermont-New York border, normally close to flood stage this time of year because of rain and snow-melt, is near a record low. Just a year ago, it approached its highest level on record.

Farther south, light rain was falling Sunday over the Baltimore and Washington metro areas and was expected to intensify throughout the day, said meteorologist Carrie Suffren. (AP) lawmakers and a top adviser to President Obama expressed confidence Sunday that the agency will effectively deal with the incident.

“Every possible lead is being examined,” said Rep. Peter King, who heads the House Homeland Security Committee. King, R-N.Y., said he expected that in the “near future, several other” members of the Secret Service will leave.

“What they were thinking is beyond me,” King told NBC’s “Meet the Press.”

So far, the scandal includes 12 Secret Service employees and 11 military members. Six of the Secret Service members have lost their jobs. One has been cleared and five remain on administrative leave. A Secret Service official confirmed Sunday that one of the 12 implicated in the scandal was staying at a different hotel than the others.

He was staying at the Hilton, where Obama eventually would stay, said the official who spoke on the condition of anonymity because the Susan Collins of Maine, the senior Republican on the Homeland Security Committee, and Rep. Carolyn Maloney, D-N.Y., both said that more female Secret Service agents might help guard against such incidents from happening again. “I can’t help but wonder if there had been more women as part of that detail, if this ever would have happened,” Collins said on ABC’s “This Week.” Maloney told the same program that only 11 percent of the Secret Service’s agents are women. “I can’t help but keeping asking this question: ‘Where are the women?’” Maloney said. official was not authorized to discuss the matter publicly. The agent is being investigated for improprieties in a separate incident that may have happened on April 9, days before the president arrived.

Sen. Joe Lieberman, chairman of the Senate Homeland Security and Government Affairs Committee, also mentioned the 12th agent under investigation in an appearance on CBS’ “Face the Nation.”

“Now we don’t know at this point what that 12th agent is being charged with and why he’s been put on administrative leave. But now you’re into the hotel where the president of the United States was going to stay,” Lieberman said.

France Sends Sarkozy to Runoff

Incumbent narrowly trails Socialist after 1st round of voting

Paris

Socialist Francois Hollande and conservative President Nicolas Sarkozy are heading for a runoff election in their race for France's presidency, according to partial official results in a vote that could alter the European political and economic landscape.

French voters defied expectations and handed a surprisingly strong third-place showing to far-right candidate Marine Le Pen, who has run on an anti-immigrant platform aimed largely at Muslims. That could boost her influence on the French political scene, hand her party seats in parliament and affect relations with minorities.

With 75 percent of the vote counted, Hollande had 27.9 percent of ballots cast and Sarkozy 26.7 percent, according to figures released by the Interior Ministry. Le Pen was in third with 19.2 percent of the vote so far.

Face-off in France

Ten candidates faced off for Sunday's first round of voting in France's presidential election. The top two vote-getters, likely to be Socialist Francois Hollande and incumbent Nicolas Sarkozy, head to a runoff May 6. (AP)

FRANCOIS HOLLANDE

Age: 57

Status: The front-runner in all opinion polls ahead of the election.

History: Leader of the Socialist Party from 1997 to 2008, he's a career politician who has built his reputation as a manager and consensus-builder.

Voter perception: Wishy-washy and too nice to make tough decisions.

Platform: Hollande wants to tax high-income earners at 75 percent and reconsider a hard-won European fiscal treaty meant to stem the continent's debt crisis, saying it hurts ordinary folks.

NICOLAS SARKOZY

Age: 57

Status: Incumbent president, a conservative elected in 2007.

History: The leader improved ties with the U.S. and Israel. He also raised the retirement age.

Voter perceptions: A frank leader who makes opponents blanch at his attacks on immigrants — he's the son of a Hungarian immigrant — and on Muslim practices, such as the ban on Islamic face veils.

Platform: Sarkozy has strived to return to his tough-guy image while stressing austerity measures to help debt-strapped France.

Turnout was also surprisingly high, projected by polling agencies at about 80 percent, despite concern that a campaign lacking a single overarching theme had failed to inspire voters.

“This is an election that will weigh on the future of Europe.”

— FRANCOIS HOLLANDE, THE SOCIALIST WHO IS CHALLENGING NICOLAS SARKOZY FOR THE FRENCH PRESIDENCY.

“Many people are watching us,” Hollande, 57, said Sunday. “They’re wondering not so much what the winner’s name will be, but especially what policies will follow.”

Whatever happens to France’s leadership will affect the rest of the 27-nation European Union. At a time when voters across Europe have ousted incumbents amid economic woes, a Hollande victory would tilt the continent’s political balance to the left as EU states such as Greece, Italy, Ireland and Spain work to wriggle out of crushing debt. # If you're happy with your dentures, don't read this!

WHY SUFFER WITH DENTURES?

For centuries, removable false teeth, or dentures, have been used to replace missing teeth. But denture-wearers report that many undesirable side effects come along with this less-than-ideal solution: Dentures are uncomfortable to wear and often slip or click; they can cause bad breath, and require ongoing and inconvenient maintenance; they often result in a weak bite, a fake-looking smile and an overly active gagging reflex.

Care and comfort aside, those with dentures also are prevented from eating many of the foods and participating in many of the activities they enjoy.

With today's science, there's simply no reason for anyone to struggle with dentures. In fact, many of the problems denture wearers struggle with can be solved in just one day* with the help of your ClearChoice team of dental implant professionals.

Denture wearers tend to struggle with:

- Shame or embarrassment when smiling
- Feeling limited in social situations
- Maintaining a fully active lifestyle
- Appearing older due to bone loss
- Health issues related to their teeth

THE SOLUTION IS DENTAL IMPLANTS.

Dental implants provide far better results than do dentures, because implants can prevent potential bone loss. Because they're anchored into the jawbone, the fusion of the implant and bone provides stability, just as the natural teeth did. Implants perform and are cared for just like natural teeth!

If you're missing some or all of your teeth, dental implants can stimulate the bone, protect against atrophy and help preserve your natural facial features.

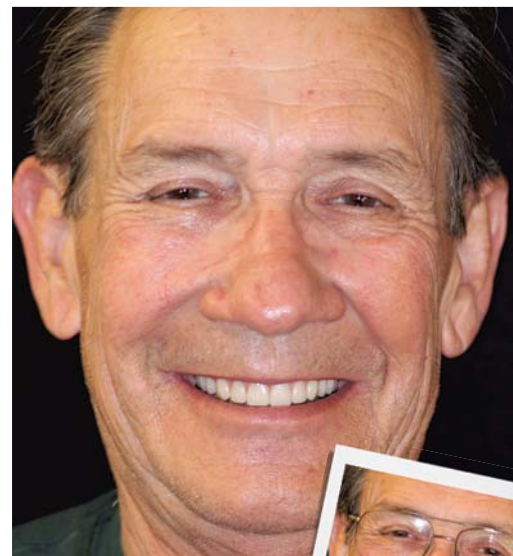

Unlike dentures, dental implants are fixed in place, perform like your natural teeth, and can last a lifetime!

CHOOSE A BETTER LIFE TODAY.

Most people who choose dental implants report the decision to be life changing. Not only do dental implants look great and boost your confidence, but they can also restore you to the active lifestyle you've been missing. Swim, ski, laugh and sing. Give business presentations. Eat what you like. Do it all without worrying about how your smile looks, or that your teeth will slip or fall out!

The ClearChoice team of specialists provides 21st century solutions to people struggling with dentures or bad teeth.

Afghanistan, U.S. Settle on Strategic Pact

Deal ends 18 months of talks on support past '14 withdrawal

Kabul, Afghanistan

The U.S. and Afghanistan reached a deal Sunday on a long-delayed strategic partnership accord that ensures Americans will provide military and financial aid for at least a decade beyond 2014, when most foreign forces will withdraw.

The pact is key to the U.S. exit strategy in Afghanistan because it provides guidelines for any American forces who remain after the withdrawal deadline and for financial help to the impoverished country and its security forces.

For the Afghans, it is a way to show its people that their U.S. allies are not just walking away.

After 10 years of U.S.-led war, insurgents remain a threat and as recently as a week ago launched a large-scale attack on the capital, Kabul, and three other cities.

But the U.S. is expected to maintain a large presence there for years after, including special forces and military trainers. be reviewed in both countries and signed by both presidents. Neither Afghan nor U.S. officials would comment on its details.

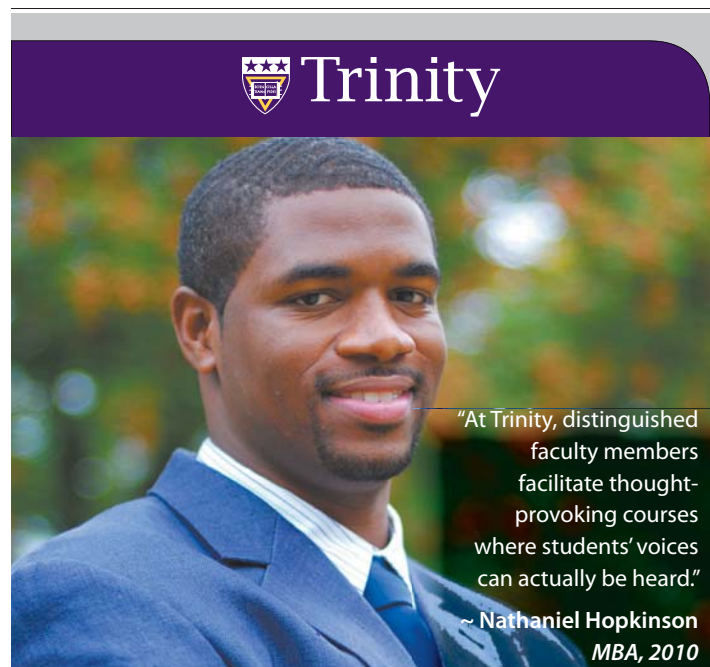

U.S.-Afghan relations have been strained by a video of U.S. Marines urinating on corpses, by Koran burnings and by the alleged massacre of 17 Afghans by a U.S. soldier. Reaching any deal is likely to be seen as a success given more than a year and a half of negotiations during which the entire effort appeared in danger of falling apart multiple times. (AP)

Happy (Frugal) Birthday to You

Throw a great party without completely blowing your budget

Advice

Birthday parties, whether you're throwing or attending, are expensive, time-consuming events. If you're planning one for yourself, it can run you hundreds of dollars just to supply the cake.

"One reaction to the recession has been a dialing back," said Dana

Points, editor in chief of Parents and American Baby magazines. "But we're noticing that people are doing more themselves."

Evite's Jamie Molever says that 50 million of the 222 million Evite invitations sent last year were for birthdays. But now that you know you can save money on free electronic invitations, what about the party itself?

With so many do-it-yourself options and cheap ways to stock up on necessities, it's easy to be the life of the party on a tight budget.

Plan Ahead

Planning a last-minute party will ensure you're paying too much for the essentials. "It's always good advice to plan ahead, no matter what you're shopping for," says Jody Rohlena, senior editor of ShopSmart magazine. "Watch for coupons at Sundaysaver.com. If you plan in advance, you won't be caught paying full price."

Join the Club

If you're throwing a large party at your home, a warehouse club membership may pay for itself. "We've found you can save up to half-price on Tyson chicken wings, Nestle chocolate chips, Corona beers and Ritz crackers," Rohlena says.

Negotiate the Venue

If you must rent out a venue for a party, haggle to get a better price. "Or ask them to toss in a slightly higher grade of liquor, a cake or appetizers," Rohlena says. "You might not get everything you ask for, but it doesn't hurt to ask."

Potlucks and Picnics

Potlucks save you money and save your guests the worry of bringing a gift. Picnics, too, are a cheap warm-weather alternative. Avoid the urge to invite friends to a restaurant, which can exclude friends on a budget or with special dietary needs. KATHERINE BOYLE (THE WASHINGTON POST)

The Capitals drop Game 6 at home, forcing a final battle in Boston

The Capitals

With a goal in overtime, Tyler Seguin propelled the Boston Bruins to a 4-3 win over the Capitals on Sunday, tying the first-round Eastern Conference playoff series at three games apiece.

The defending Stanley Cup champion Bruins never trailed, but needed a stolen pass and a deft bit of skating to finally get the decisive goal and avoid being eliminated by the seventh-seeded Capitals.

In overtime, David Krejci intercepted a pass by Nicklas Backstrom and sent the puck to Milan Lucic, who passed ahead to Seguin.

Seguin veered to his right to draw goaltender Braden Holtby from the net, then lifted a shot past the rookie to win it.

That kept alive Boston's bid to become the first team to win successive Stanley Cups since the Detroit Red Wings in 1997-98.

Boston's Rich Peverley opened the scoring at 5:56 of the first period by deflecting a shot by Andrew Ference past Holtby.

The lead was short-lived. After gaining possession of the puck on top of the left circle, Washington defenseman Mike Green launched a slap shot past Tim Thomas' left shoulder and into the net at 9:47.

Seven minutes later, the Bruins went up 2-1 on a power-play goal by Krejci.

In the second period, the Capitals' penalty-killing efficiency came heavily into play. After Alex Ovechkin received a 4-minute penalty Minutes later, Thomas sprawled to his left to snuff an attempt by Marcus Johansson, who was seeking to slide the puck into the corner of the goal mouth.

But the Capitals pulled even with less than a minute left in the period. Backstrom charged down the right side and waited until Alex Ovechkin celebrates his game-tying goal in the third period, which forced OT.

Thomas and Chara committed themselves before sending a backhand pass to Jason Chimera, who slammed the puck into the net before Thomas could move back across the crease.

The Bruins took a 3-2 lead at 11:51 of the third period on a goal by Ference.

But Washington wasn't done. Off a faceoff in the Boston zone, Ovechkin controlled the puck with

Deciding Games

2008 1st round: After notching a Game 1 victory, the Caps dropped three straight games only to force a Game 7 at home against the Philadelphia Flyers. Nicklas Backstrom struck first, giving Washington a 1-0 lead, but the Flyers scored the next two before Alex Ovechkin tied the game at 2. It stayed that way till overtime, when Joffrey Lupul sent in a power-play goal.

2009 1st round: Again, the Caps found themselves in a 3-1 deficit in a first-round series, this time against the New York Rangers. Veteran Sergei Fedorov wiped away the bad memories from the previous year with a third-period series-clinching goal in a 2-1 game.

2009 2nd round: In the first of what the NHL hopes is a long line of playoff matchups between Ovechkin and Sidney Crosby, the Caps took a 2-0 series lead before running out of steam. After losing three in a row to the Penguins, Washington forced a Game 7—which turned into an anticlimactic 6-2 loss for Washington.

Thomas had 35 saves in regulation Sunday, but it wasn't enough to prevent the third overtime game of the series. All six games have been decided by one goal.

"It's difficult, but I don't think it's going to be hard," Ovechkin said on heading back to Boston for Game 7 on Wednesday. "It's going to be a 50-50 game, 50-50 chances." DAVID GINSBURG (AP)

Fare hikes set to go into effect on July 1 after board approval

Transportation

Virginia Railway Express passengers will see a 3 percent fare increase in their daily tickets and monthly passes July 1 after the railway's Operations Board formally approved the increase Friday.

The fare hike was discussed in March at seven community meetings from the District to Stafford County. Meetings in Burke and Stafford had no residents in attendance — a first for the VRE, according to CEO Dale Zehner.

From Fredericksburg to Union Station, monthly passes now cost $285.50, and single rides are $10.30. Starting in July, monthly pass riders will see a 22-cent increase per trip, or about $9 per month, and a single trip will cost 35 cents more. Increases vary by zone.

Stafford County Supervisors Susan Stimpson, a Republican, and Paul Milde, a Republican, voted against the proposed increase. The other 11 board members voted in favor.

Given that VRE's nine localities are seeing 3 percent increases as well, Stimpson said the fare increase shouldn't be necessary. Milde said that fare increases send

The increase is expected to generate about $900,000 in additional revenue next year to pay for rising fuel costs and increased payments to Keolis, VRE's primary contractor that runs the day-to-day operation of the railway.

The Operations Board also voted to extend Keolis' contract for a third year at a cost of $18 million. The three-year contract is not to exceed $56.5 million.

D.C. Taxi Fare Hike Takes Effect

Cabdrivers say new rates drop incentive to pick up groups

Washington

Whether taking a cab to the Hill or past the Beltway, residents and visitors alike may be surprised to find that their wallets are a little lighter.

Beginning Saturday, the taxi mileage rate will increase to $2.16 per mile from $1.50. Taxis will still charge a base fare of $3.

Some cabdrivers said they are concerned that the new D.C. Taxicab Commission regulations will affect not their profits but their passengers. John, a driver who asked to remain anonymous to protect his job, said the fare increase takes away the incentive for picking up large groups of passengers or those with suitcases.

Taxis will now charge 50 cents per piece of luggage that the driver places in the trunk. Briefcases, purses, bags of groceries and other items of similar size are not considered luggage, according to the commission.

Some drivers see fare increases as a reality of urban transportation.

"I think it's good," cabdriver Paul Bankett said. "Things are going to change anyway with progress. ... People just have to learn to deal with things like this." Commission members have brought up using the fare increase to improve cab services, such as installing mandatory credit-card-payment systems.

While some people said being able to use credit cards would make cabs more convenient, others said the funds shouldn't come from passengers' pockets.

Taxicabs wait outside of Union Station Friday in D.C. New fares set in place by the D.C. Taxicab Commission took effect Saturday.

Dupont Circle to Anacostia	$14.25	$17.00	+$2.75

"The credit card companies should pay for it since they're the ones making the business," said Ash Kamath, who was in Washington on business. "It shouldn't be the taxicabs or the government; that's subsidizing."

Kamath said he uses D.C. taxis at least three or four times a week but will be less inclined to hail them at the increased rate.

Not all cabs will be charging the higher fares at once, commission Chairman Ron Linton said. Taxi companies that applied for recertification by the city's deadline received committee-approved security seals and can be preprogrammed so the new fares take effect Saturday, he said. Most drivers are waiting to see whether the increase in price per mile makes up for losing other fees, such as the $1.50 charge for dismissing a cab hailed by phone or $2 for carrying "trunks or similar-sized large articles."

The Luck Of the Draw

Colts aim to repeat history by drafting the ex-Stanford star

Pro Football

Robert Griffin III and Andrew Luck spent months vying to be No. 1.

The struggle played out on college football fields in California and Texas last fall, at offseason awards presentations in Florida and inside a theater room in New York City. This year's great draft debate took the top two quarterbacks to Indianapolis for the annual scouting combine and back to their college campuses for personal workouts and interviews.

Now, barring some unforeseen circumstance before Thursday night's NFL draft, commissioner Roger Goodell will declare Luck the winner when the Colts make him the first overall pick. The truth is, there may not be a loser in this competition.

"Both guys have tremendous intangibles and their skill sets are outstanding," Colts general manager Ryan Grigson said. "I don't see how either of them are not successful in this league."

Most analysts believe Luck and Griffin will be smart picks if they can stay healthy and their teams remain patient with their development.

So why are the Colts taking Luck? History.

Luck's résumé looks like a virtual carbon-copy of his predecessor in Indy: Peyton Manning.

He's smart, loves the game and leaves nothing to chance. Even their paths to the draft are similar.

"I believe without question, both will be successful. ... Andrew may struggle early simply because of the surrounding cast playing with him."

— BILL POLIAN, THE FORMER COLTS GM, WHO THINKS THAT ROBERT GRIFFIN III MAY SUCCEED EARLIER IN THE NFL THAN ANDREW LUCK.

Like Manning, Luck grew up with an NFL-playing quarterback father. Like Manning, Luck left his home state to play college football. Like Manning, Luck ignored the temptation to leave school after three years even though both would have been the No. 1 pick. Like Manning, Luck finished second in the Heisman Trophy race during his final college season, and the Colts are hoping that, like Manning, Luck will make the Colts a regular Super Bowl contender. So after 14 mostly successful seasons under Manning, the Colts have decided to go with the next best thing: Luck.

The next debate will be about who is more ready to win?

Luck has drawn the obvious comparisons to John Elway and has been called the most NFL-ready quarterback since Manning entered the league in 1998.

Out of Nowhere?

And after throwing for 479 yards and four TDs in a win that knocked Oklahoma out of the national title chase, Robert Griffin III burst onto the national scene as a Heisman contender. But NFL scouts knew Griffin was a star much earlier. "RG3 was an unknown quantity to those outside the professional scouting community. So his 'ride was purely a result of those who didn't know him," former Colts GM Bill Polian said. "He hasn't risen, he was there all the time." (AP)

Oliver Luck, Andrew's dad, insists the extra year has made his son a better, more mature quarterback. "I think he grew in his role as a QB, I think he played in a little bit of [a] fish bowl because of the expectations, which I think is great training for the NFL," he said.

However, former Colts general manager Bill Polian — who drafted Manning — thinks Griffin will win the next round. "I believe without question, both will be successful," Polian said. "I believe Andrew may struggle early simply because of the surrounding cast playing with him. It was nowhere near where Peyton's was and he went 3-1. ... RGIII is going to be adapting to a new offense. In spite of that, he may have the easier road in his rookie year." MICHAEL MAROT (AP)

Rain Derails Marquee Matchup

Strasburg-Kershaw duel set for next week is a victim of washout

The Nationals

The Nationals postponed Sunday's series finale against the Miami Marlins because of rain, derailing a delicious pitching matchup next weekend between Stephen Strasburg and Los Angeles Dodgers ace Clayton Kershaw but allowing Ryan Zimmerman the unique luxury of resting for three days while missing only one game.

After winning both games against the Marlins, the Nationals will carry a 12-4 record to the West Coast for a road trip that begins Tuesday in San Diego. After playing 15 games in 15 days, the Nationals receive two consecutive days of rest because of a scheduled off day Monday.

Manager Davey Johnson will not adjust his rotation schedule after the minibreak. "Nada," Johnson said when asked about changes to the starting five. Gio Gonzalez, Jordan Zimmermann and Edwin Jackson will pitch in San Diego, with Ross Detwiler, Strasburg and Gonzalez starting over the weekend against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Sunday's rain robbed baseball of one of its juiciest pitching matchups

Welcomed Break

Ryan Zimmerman had planned to sit out Sunday's game with right shoulder inflammation that convinced the Nationals to scratch him less than half an hour before first pitch Saturday. Had the Nats played Sunday, Chad Tracy would have played third base and batted third in Zimmerman's place. Between Saturday, Sunday and Monday's scheduled off day, Zimmerman will miss only one game while allowing the soreness in his shoulder to die down. (TWP) this season. On Friday, Kershaw, the 2011 Cy Young winner, would have faced Strasburg. But now Strasburg will start Saturday and Kershaw will face Detwiler.

This season, Kershaw has a 1.61 ERA with 22 strikeouts in 22 1/3 innings, while Strasburg has a 1.08 ERA with a league-leading 25 strikeouts in 25 innings. Both the Dodgers and Nationals have won all four games their ace has started.

Johnson perked up for a moment when told the marquee matchup could have happened, but there was nothing he could really do about it. "Who do you want me to drop?" Johnson asked.

Flyers Put In-State Rival Penguins on Ice

Philly wins physical series in 6 games to advance in playoffs

Pro Hockey

Claude Giroux wrapped up a dominant series with his sixth goal, Ilya Bryzgalov had his first outstanding effort in net and the Philadelphia Flyers beat the Pittsburgh Penguins 5-1 on Sunday to win their Eastern Conference opening-round series in six games.

Giroux scored only 32 seconds into the game, and the Flyers rolled from there. In a series where no lead was safe, the Flyers scored the first three goals and made it stand behind stout defense and stellar play out of Bryzgalov.

D.C.'s Cinematic School

A trio of Georgetown alumni make waves in the movie industry

Film

When Georgetown University associate professor Roberto Bocci saw a 12-minute clip of the movie "Sound of My Voice" recently, it struck a familiar chord. The speculative thriller, about a cult led by a woman claiming to be a time traveler, stars Brit Marling, who co-wrote the screenplay with director Zal Batmanglij. Both Marling and Batmanglij studied digital photography and video with Bocci when they were at Georgetown. In "Sound of My Voice," which opens in Washington on Friday, Bocci saw echoes of the films they made as students.

"They did a movie in school called 'Bernadette,'" Bocci says, "which was a very dark, kind of sinister movie, but also beautiful and idiosyncratic." From what he has seen, Bocci predicts that "Sound of My Voice" will reflect "the same kind of sensibilities."

Film and media studies director Bernard Cook had a similar experience when he saw "Another Earth" last summer. That film, again starring and co-written by Marling, was directed by Mike Cahill, a Georgetown alum and close friend of both Marling's and Batmanglij's.

In a pivotal early scene in "Another Earth" the camera pulls out and up, creating a sweeping vertical shot that presaged the film's cosmic sensibility. "It put me in mind of a specific shot Mike had created as an undergraduate," Cook says. "He literally rigged up a video camera with a rope attached, and managed to throw it over a tree ... in the middle of campus. He was literally playing around with how to create his own crane shot without a crane."

When young filmmakers manage

A Hobby No More

Zal Batmanglij insists that when he and Mike Cahill began making short films, "we had no concept that you could actually make a living doing this. It seemed like a hobby." Now, Batmanglij and Brit Marling have another film together, "The East," co-starring Ellen Page and Alexander Skarsgard, due out later this year. (TWP)

to have their debut films accepted at the Sundance Film Festival and later picked up by a prestigious studio, more often than not their educational résumé includes names like USC, UCLA or NYU. Not Georgetown, which is best known for minting lawyers, politicians and diplomats. But at last year's Sundance, Cahill, Batmanglij and Marling — who majored in economics, anthropology, and economics and studio art, respectively — put Georgetown on the cinematic map.

They weren't alone: Jim Whitaker was also at Sundance, with his documentary "Rebirth," and Regina Kulik Scully was there as executive producer of "Miss Representation."

But the Cahill-Batmanglij-Marling troika clearly defined a turning point — not just in Georgetown being taken seriously as an incubator of filmmaking talent, but in taking itself seriously as well. Last year, the school created a film and media studies program, an achievement that Cook credits the three with helping to galvanize. "It's something we'd been building literally for 10 years, since Mike and Zal were undergrads," he says. "They made the coherence for themselves what we're trying to do now is build that coherence for others."

A number of factors converged in 2001 to make Georgetown the unlikely cinematic hotbed that it turned out to be. Chief among them was a campus film festival, where Cahill and Batmanglij submitted their film "Lucid Grey." Marling saw it and was "completely floored." Later, she approached Batmanglij in a supermarket and begged him to let her help in the team's next production. He and Cahill decided to cast her, and so began a collaboration that continues to this day.

"I'm so grateful to have those two people in my life, and to have come of age with them creatively," Batmanglij says. "You know, we entered 'Lucid Grey' into the Georgetown festival on April 27, 2001. Now 'Sound of My Voice' is opening on April 27, 11 years later. It couldn't have happened in a more perfectly cinematic way."

Cult of Personality

Willis Earl Beal trades a life on the streets for life on the road

Music

Chicago-based soul singer Willis Earl Beal once told an interviewer he wanted to be a cult legend, which isn't a thing people usually set out to become on purpose.

Beal, 28, recently issued his official debut, "Acousmatic Sorcery," a roughly hewn, bewitching, cult-star-dorm-baiting collection of anti-folk and blues songs. It positions Beal as the heir to outsider artists such as Daniel Johnston and Wesley Willis, with a backstory to match: Formerly homeless, Beal used to write songs, record them to burnable CDs and leave them in public places to be found. Now, he's on his first-ever tour, and everything is working out according to plan.

When you were writing "Acousmatic Sorcery," did you imagine that it would lead to a label deal?

I can't say that I didn't preconceive it, because I did, but I didn't think it was gonna happen in real life. I just imagined it happening. There'd be many times where I'd interview myself. I would fantasize and pretend like I was something much greater than I was, because that was my way of passing the time.

Folk singer Willis Earl Beal used to leave his CDs in public places for people to find.

Do you worry that if you got better at stuff like playing the guitar that it would ruin things?

"Acousmatic Sorcery" is not a true representation of my musical abilities. It's just like walking in on somebody in the bathroom. I never intended for those songs to be heard in that way by a lot of people.

You used to record and leave CDs around for people to find.

I was doing that not because I wanted to be famous. It was like regurgitation. I was alone and I didn't know what else to do. It was something I had to let go of, unless

I wanted to become some kind of serial killer.

When you live on the streets for a while, does that stay with you?

It does stick in my mind, but the only thing I can think of is good times, because I met a lot of strange people. ... I did sleep outside, I did dumpster dive. I did do day-labor jobs. I had stuff stolen from me at the homeless shelter; I stole things from other people at the homeless shelter, but it never seemed harsh to me. Maybe it was the good weather. ## depressed?

NIH is studying a novel medication for rapid antidepressant response and its effect on memory & attention using neuroimaging.

NIH researchers seek currently depressed persons ages 18-55 to enroll in research studies evaluating how an FDA-approved drug, Scopolamine (for motion sickness) versus placebo can help with depression. In one study, the drug is given intravenously over 7-sessions (inpatient or outpatient), in the other the drug is given by patch over 12 sessions (outpatient). Participants must not be taking medications for three weeks prior to starting the study.

The studies are conducted at the NIH Clinical Center in Bethesda, Maryland, and may include brain imaging and attention and memory tasks to help understand the role of some brain chemicals in depression.

There is no cost to participate and travel is reimbursed. Atendemos pacientes de habla hispana.

“It is the one day out of the year that people from all over the world come together to plant trees, pledge to compost and/or recycle more [and] remember their reusable mugs and bags. It seems to me that people sometimes forget that the Earth needs some love the other 364 days out of the year.”
—STEPHANIE MORAM AT BLOGHER.COM finds it unfortunate that Earth Day, celebrated April 22, is just a once-a-year activity for many people.

“I’ve been amazed by my friends and colleagues who have been crowing about the possibility of ‘Think Like A Man’ knocking ‘The Hunger Games’ out of the top spot like it’s some sort of huge victory for African-American cinema. ## Horoscope

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't let your own self-consciousness show today; you will want to appear capable and confident, especially when in a new environment.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) An open and honest approach to a sensitive issue wins. Others are less likely to be squeamish if you are relaxed and comfortable.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You know how to do some impressive things, and today is the day to put one or two of your skills on display.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You can impress another with your ability to work under a variety of difficult circumstances. Some things just come easy to you!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You may find yourself venturing into strange territory today, but past experience can prove useful as you get the lay of the land.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Now is no time to run from a situation that challenges you mentally and emotionally. Face it head-on, and you can surely come out on top.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) A loved one may be misinterpreting certain signals at this time, and it is up to you to make things clear once again.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Balance is the key today, but you can achieve it only after taking an honest look at the way you do certain things.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your financial security is a primary issue today, but you'll take comfort in the fact that others are working on the problem with you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You can understand where someone else is coming from today, and this ability to walk in his or her shoes can benefit both of you right now.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) You can expect a compromise to benefit you more than anyone else today — but don't think that you won't have to give something up!

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll want to put a certain issue under the microscope at this time and take a look at aspects that are usually overlooked.

VOLUNTEER FOR MALARIA RESEARCH STUDIES

In 2010, there were an estimated 216 million cases of malaria worldwide. Currently, there is no effective malaria vaccine.

Healthy adults 18 to 45 years old are needed to participate in a malaria vaccine research study.

This study tests if an experimental vaccine is safe and can prevent infection following exposure to the malaria parasite. If the vaccine does not prevent infection and volunteers develop malaria symptoms, they will receive immediate treatment which is curative.

Study volunteers will be compensated for their participation, estimated to last between 12 and 52 weeks.

To volunteer, call 1-866-833-LIFE (toll-free) or TTY 1-866-411-1010, email vaccines@nih.gov, or visit www.vrc.nih.gov.
